9-1-1 and Cell Phones

Here's What You Need To Do In A 9-1-1 Emergency

- Provide your cell phone number immediately
- Speak Clearly, Answer All Questions - Stay Calm
- Describe the location of the emergency
- What kind of assistance do you need
- If your call is disconnected, call back
- Don't hang up until the dispatcher says it's okay.

9-1-1 Tip:

While not available now 9-1-1 call centers are heading towards being able to accept both text and photos.

Some 9-1-1 centers have bilingual 9-1-1 call takers and dispatchers. All dispatchers can add on an interpreter through the use of a language line service. The language line offers translation in more than 270 different languages.

A non-English caller may hear a short conversation in English, then some clicking sounds, as an interpreter is added to the 9-1-1 call. Please do not hang up before the call has been completed.
